Sub-contractors are provided with access to the includED resource bank, bi-monthly snippets, includED factsheets and safeguarding guides via Sharepoint and a regular newsletter.

Our clients (employers) will have access to our guide to includED which is aimed at supporting their understanding of equality, inclusion and safeguarding. Specific client training in any of the includED topics may be provided on request from the Safeguarding and Welfare Manager.

Task group

Our includED brand and ethos is overseen by a task group. This task group is representative of the key areas of our business. The terms of reference and responsibilities for the includED task group can be found at Appendix two.

Equality and inclusion - our commitment

Our commitment

The Equality Act 2010 (The Act) places responsibilities upon Paragon Skills and its colleagues to promote equality. We will extend this responsibility by encompassing the Prevent Duty and Safeguarding expectations within this guide with the view to work in ways which promote community cohesion, tackle inequality and minimise the risk of harm posed to vulnerable groups and individuals.

Paragon Skills is committed to promoting equality, inclusion, dignity and respect for all through its culture and activities. We will embrace diversity by promoting and maintaining an inclusive and supportive environment where everyone can achieve their full potential. We are committed to monitoring diversity within our workforce and learner/apprentice base through our includED impact measures (IIMs).

Objectives

We will support our colleagues, customers, learners and apprentices to recognise and meet the differing needs of people from diverse backgrounds within their day to day activities, and to embed and promote the principles of equality in all that they do. We will regularly review our progress in doing this and take swift action where gaps or inappropriate practice are identified.

Equality Act 2010 definitions

The Act covers nine 'protected characteristics':

Age

The Act protects people of all ages. However, different treatment because of age is not unlawful direct or indirect discrimination if it can be justified that we are achieving a legitimate aim.

Disability

The Act has made it easier for a person to show that they are disabled and protected from disability discrimination. Under the Act, a person is disabled if they have a physical or mental impairment which has a substantial and long-term adverse effect on their ability to carry out normal day-to-day activities.

Gender reassignment

The Act says that you must not be discriminated against because you are transsexual - that is your gender identity differs from the gender assigned to you at birth. In the Act it is known as gender reassignment. All transsexual people share the common characteristic of gender reassignment.

Race

For the purposes of the Act, race includes colour, nationality and ethnic or national origins.

Religion, belief and non-belief

In the Act, the word religion includes all religions and faiths. It also includes a lack of religion where people have no religious belief at all.

Sexual orientation

Protection by the Act is given to bisexual, gay, heterosexual, and lesbian people.

Sex

Both men and women are equally protected by the Act. Discrimination on the grounds of sex is unlawful.

Marriage or civil partnership

The Act protects those who are married or in a civil partnership against discrimination. Single people are not protected under the Act.

Pregnancy and maternity

A woman is protected against discrimination on the grounds of pregnancy and maternity during the period of her pregnancy and statutory maternity leave. During this period, any discrimination cannot be treated as sex discrimination.

Discrimination

There are a number of forms of discrimination. Paragon Skills actively challenges all forms of discrimination and will work to ensure that our learners, apprentices colleagues and partners are aware of how discrimination can be tackled effectively.

Direct discrimination

Direct discrimination occurs when someone is treated less favourably than another person because they have a protected characteristic.

Associative discrimination

Associative discrimination occurs when someone is treated less favourably because they are associated with someone who has a protected characteristic – this is a form of direct discrimination.

Perceptive discrimination

Perceptive discrimination occurs when someone is treated less favourably because someone thinks they may have a protected characteristic. It applies even if the person doesn't have a protected characteristic. This is a form of direct discrimination.

Indirect discrimination

Indirect discrimination occurs when a rule, policy, or practice that may disadvantage people who share a protected characteristic is imposed.

Harassment

Harassment is unwanted conduct relating to a protected characteristic which has a purpose of upsetting or violating a person's dignity or creating an intimidating, hostile, degrading, humiliating or offensive environment for the individual. Harassment cannot be aimed at people on the grounds of maternity, pregnancy, marriage or civil partnership. Colleagues can make a formal complaint on the grounds of harassment if they find the action offensive and it wasn't directly aimed at them personally.

Victimisation

Victimisation occurs when someone is treated badly because they have made or supported a complaint or grievance under the Equality Act 2010 or are suspected of doing so. Malicious or untrue complaints are not covered.

Discrimination, harassment and victimisation against colleagues, learners, apprentices and partner colleagues will not be tolerated.

Training

Initial training on equality and inclusion will be provided to all colleagues at induction through the completion of our self-study Education pack which covers all elements of includED. This will then be supported through the provision of regular includED Continuing Professional Development (CPD), bi-monthly includED snippets and via formal annual includED refresher self-study activity. The training and CPD provided will focus on equality and inclusion related matters as well as providing information which empowers colleagues to challenge inequalities, to build the resilience of our learners and apprentices and have a positive impact upon community cohesion.

Equality for all

We will value and make use of differences between colleagues to the benefit of both them and Paragon Skills and provide a working and learning environment free from bullying, discrimination and harassment.

We will thoroughly investigate and deal with any complaints raised regarding discrimination, harassment, victimisation or inequality.

Our approach to ensuring the equality of opportunity and the benefits of diversity will be understood by all colleagues.

All those involved in recruitment, selection or assessment of colleagues or job applicants will be given appropriate guidance to carry out their roles effectively – Paragon Skills is an equal opportunities employer and the recruitment or promotion of any individual will be based on individual merit, skills and abilities relevant to the requirements of the role. All recruiting managers will receive training on recruiting safely and fairly prior to leading the recruitment and selection process.

Individuals will be able to recognise their responsibility to showing respect to their colleagues, working as a team and contributing positively to an environment where everyone has the same chance to develop and progress within Paragon Skills.

We will provide learning materials which are free from cultural or other bias. Although primarily written in English, learning materials will be made available in alternative formats and in other languages where requested. Where technology allows learning materials will be created in accessible formats.

Training programmes will be designed and delivered in a flexible manner, which takes account of the diverse needs, aspirations, prior achievements and prior experience of learners and apprentices. Blended learning will ensure accessibility.

Any learners/apprentices with additional support needs will be identified at the point of entry and arrangements will be made to provide them with appropriate support. We will use CognAssist, an online neurodiversity tool which looks at eight different brain functions, to provide support with any additional learning needs. All learners and apprentices will be screened and provided with an opportunity to access this resource at the point of identified need.

We will make arrangements for learners and apprentices with special assessment requirements to ensure that there are no unnecessary barriers to preventing them from achieving.

All procedures for assessment and testing will be free from cultural or other bias.

We will take positive action to ensure that minority groups are represented within our workforce and our learner/apprentice community. Data will be monitored by our includED task group and People Team to ensure that where action is needed this can be taken swiftly.

Our guide to includED will be constantly monitored to ensure that it is working and being applied consistently across the organisation. This will include utilising Learner and Colleague Voice mechanisms.

Levels of responsibility

This guide is under Board governance and is reviewed annually by the DSL team, taking into account the impact of the policy and any lessons learned together with any legislative or required process changes. Recommendations are then made to the Board for their approval and sign off.

The strategic direction for equality will be managed by the Head of People with input from the includED task group.

The Executive Team will monitor and review the impact of this guide on the business based on Board report feedback provided by the includED task group through the Board reporting process.

The People Team will be responsible for advising managers on the application of the guide and for ensuring that all training and documentation in connection with monitoring, recruitment, selection, training, promotion and relevant employment procedures are administered in accordance with the guide.

Managers are provided with People Standards to assist them in meeting their responsibilities which include them ensuring that their colleagues have a clear understanding of equality and inclusion and how to enact their responsibilities.

All colleagues will:

- Challenge unlawful discrimination for all protected characteristics shown above
- Promote equality of opportunity for all
- Promote good relations between people of different races and cultures
- Promote equality of opportunity between disabled people and other people
- Challenge harassment and bullying of people that is related to their protected characteristic
- Follow safeguarding reporting procedures to protect individuals from any potential risk of harm
- Promote positive attitudes towards people with a protected characteristic
- Support the development of community cohesion
- Read all literature issued on equality, abiding by and ensuring the consistent application of this

Personal Tutors will ensure that the learners and apprentices for whom they are responsible have an understanding of equality and diversity. They will support their learners and apprentices to have an appreciation of how this impacts them personally and of their own role in ensuring good practice. This will be done using the approved resources provided by the includED task group and will include self-study materials relevant to the level of learning.

Personal Tutors will make learners and apprentices aware of the procedures to be followed if they have been unfairly treated in any way whilst in learning with Paragon Skills.

Customers and partners

Customers and partners are responsible for ensuring equality within their own workplaces and for promoting equality of opportunity for their own learners, apprentices and colleagues. Where an employer or partner does not understand their obligations under the Equality Act, Paragon Skills will provide information, advice and coaching to help improve that knowledge for the benefit of their business. Where appropriate, this will include support to develop their own policies to tackle inequality within their workplace and the provision of training.

Teaching and learning

We will support our learners and apprentices to recognise and understand bullying, harassment and victimisation and provide them with skills to challenge this effectively with the view of developing their personal resilience and citizenship skills. We will broaden their understanding of British values and topical and relevant equality related matters through the delivery of includED teaching and learning sessions. Safe space discussions will enable them to explore equality in a personalised impactful way. All learners and apprentices will be provided with an appropriate level of self-study activity focusing upon equality as an additionality to their programme; the impact of which will be monitored by the includED task group.

Colleague recruitment

Paragon Skills is an equal opportunities employer and operates a People Standard on recruitment which reflects the following commitments.

Job descriptions and specifications will clearly set out the skills, experience and qualifications required for the post and will only stipulate justifiable requirements for the job. Job advertisements will not unlawfully preclude or discourage applications from specific individuals or groups.

Recruitment activity will not suggest that Paragon Skills might take into account factors that would, or might, discriminate unlawfully. It be available in alternative formats, eg via email or in large print upon request.

Selection criteria used will reflect the standard required with screening being undertaken against the person specification for the role.

Consideration will be given to formal flexible working arrangements such as variable working hours, part-time and term-time working, job sharing and career breaks for all that would wish to be considered for such arrangements. Paragon Skills provides a flexible and supportive environment designed to support the health and wellbeing of all colleagues.

Paragon Skills is a Disability Confident committed employer. Applicants with disabilities will be given full and fair consideration for employment, having regard for their particular aptitudes and abilities and any reasonable adjustments that can be made. If an existing colleague becomes disabled, the objective should be the continued provision of suitable employment, either in the same or an alternative position, with appropriate training being given where necessary. Colleagues with disabilities will be actively supported to ensure that they share in opportunities for training, career development and promotion. Reasonable adjustments will always be considered to ensure that colleagues are able to bring their best selves to work. We will work with partner organisations to help build their understanding and confidence in this area where required.

Paragon Skills reserves the right to take positive action during its recruitment activity with the view to recruit a colleague that is needed to support us in our aim to provide a colleague base which reflects the ethnic or gender makeup of the communities that it serves. Our Recruitment People Standard guides our recruiting managers, and this is supported by ‘Safer Recruitment the Paragon Way’ self-study for recruiting managers.

Any employment references provided for ex-colleagues will be based on fact alone and will not contain any discriminatory information.

Rehabilitation of offenders’ information does not form a part of the initial process for screening candidates for interview. This information will only be consulted to ensure the suitability of a person to work in regulated activity, or for roles with frequent contact with children. Having a spent or unspent conviction does not preclude persons from working in these roles; the decision regarding the offer of employment will be based upon analysis of risk.

Sensitive data

In accordance with the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), Paragon Skills will collect and process information related to learners’, apprentices’ and colleagues’ gender, ethnicity and disability. This will be used to measure progress of underrepresented groups and to identify areas in which Paragon Skills needs to improve its efforts in promoting equality and diversity in the workplace or training environment. It will be reviewed against local labour market intelligence and national benchmarks. This activity will form a part of our includED impact measures (IIMs) which are overseen by the People Team and includED task group.

Data will be collected and stored with the express consent of the individual and stored and processed in line with the General Data Protection Regulation. Paragon Skills may also pass data to partner organisations such as the funding body. This is done only with the express consent of the individual providing it.

Marketing and recruitment of learners and apprentices

We will provide marketing and advertising materials which reflect Paragon Skills' commitment to equality and inclusion, challenge stereotypes and raise participation of underrepresented groups. All marketing and advertising materials will be written in English and, if required, will be made available through a range of sources. Wherever requested, marketing and advertising materials can also be made available in languages other than English or other accessible formats.

Bullying and harassment – colleagues

Paragon Skills is fully committed to providing a working environment that is free from bullying, harassment and victimisation of any kind. We take seriously any allegations of bullying or harassment. Paragon Skills expects everyone to understand and enact their responsibilities for keeping the workplace free of bullying, harassment and victimisation and to actively challenge inequality.

Concerns related to bullying, harassment and victimisation may be dealt with under a number of appropriate People Standards including grievance, disciplinary or the capability procedure.

Harassment can be described as unwanted behaviour, which a person finds intimidating, upsetting, embarrassing, humiliating, or offensive. It is important to note that it is not whether the behaviour was intended to be offensive that matters, rather whether the individual was offended. Sexual harassment is a significant workplace problem and can affect men as well as women, regardless of their age. It is, however, only one of several types of harassment.

People can be subject to harassment on a variety of grounds, including:

- Race, ethnic origin, nationality and skin colour
- Gender or sexual orientation
- Willingness to challenge harassment (leading to victimisation)
- Membership or non-membership of a trade union
- Disabilities or learning difficulties
- Status as an ex-offender
- Age
- Aids/HIV
- Health
- Physical characteristics
- Personal beliefs / religious beliefs
- Political persuasion

This list is not exhaustive. Harassment can range from extremes such as violence to less obvious forms like ignoring someone. Examples of behaviour that can be considered as harassment include:

- Unwanted physical contact
- Jokes, offensive language, gossip, slander, sectarian songs
- Posters, graffiti, obscene gestures, flags and emblems
- Isolation or non-co-operation and exclusion from social activities
- Intrusion by pestering, spying and stalking either in person or via the internet in chat rooms

Bullying is any persistent behaviour, directed against an individual, which is intimidating, offensive or malicious and which undermines the confidence and self-esteem of the recipient.

Examples of bullying include:

- Verbal or physical threats and intimidation
- Persistent negative comments
- Humiliating someone in front of others
- Unjustified persistent criticism
- Offensive or abusive personal remarks
- Constantly changing targets in order to cause someone to fail
- Making false allegations
- Grooming using the internet and chat rooms
- Monitoring unnecessarily and obtrusively
- Unwanted banter

Legitimate, constructive, and fair criticism of a person's performance or behaviour from a manager is not bullying. Certain types of harassment and bullying are regarded as unfair discrimination and are therefore covered by the Equality Act 2010. The Human Rights Act 1998, implemented in October 2000, changed the way that Courts and Employment Tribunals deal with harassment and bullying and introduced the right not to be subjected to degrading treatment or punishment.

Safeguarding - our commitment

The learner/apprentice perspective

To provide an environment where:

- The welfare of the learner/apprentice is paramount
- All learners/apprentices, regardless of age, disability, gender, racial heritage, religious belief, sexual orientation or identity, have the right to equal protection from all types of harm or abuse
- Relationships with learners, apprentices, partners, clients and with other agencies are developed which promote a safe learning environment
- Colleagues, learners, apprentices partners and clients have an understanding of safeguarding which then enables them to fulfil their statutory or moral obligations
- We undertake to contribute towards 'Working Together to Safeguard Children' 2018. In order to enact this we adopt the principles as laid out in the statutory guidance 'Keeping Children Safe in Education' 2020

Objectives

The purpose of this guide is to inform everyone connected with Paragon Skills, and with whom we partner, of our position with respect to the safeguarding of learners and apprentices. It explains how we respond to our statutory obligations laid out within Keeping Children Safe in Education (2020).

We believe that it is always unacceptable for a learner or apprentice to experience abuse of any kind, and recognise our responsibility to safeguard the welfare of all learners and apprentices, through procedures and practices which protect and minimise potential harm. We will seek to mitigate the risk of harm posed to learners and apprentices through our action plan and day to day behaviours and processes

Safeguarding is everybody's responsibility.

Definitions

Safeguarding seeks to keep children and adults safe from a range of potential harm and looks at preventative action, not just reaction. It is directed by various legislation and statutory guidance including Working Together to Safeguard Children (2018) and Keeping Children Safe in Education (2020).

It means promoting the welfare of children and vulnerable adults and having approaches and procedures in place which define how we will seek to protect our learners and apprentices.

The term 'child' means anyone who has not yet attained the age of 18 and the term 'vulnerable adult' means a person, aged 18 or over, who is or may be in need of community care services by reason of disability, age or illness; and is or may be unable to take care or unable to protect themselves against significant harm or exploitation.

A number of other situations may render a person 'vulnerable' such as - domestic violence, addiction, mental ill health, living in a drug-misusing family, living in areas of high crime, being likely to face racism or having caring responsibilities. With specified consent we extend our safeguarding approach to any such individual.

Safeguarding includes how we will respond to Child and Vulnerable Adult Protection concerns including the response to disclosures of maltreatment. This includes abuse, neglect, criminal or sexual exploitation, radicalisation, domestic abuse, or victimisation, peer on peer abuse, homelessness, bullying, female genital mutilation, honour based violence, sexual violence, sexual harassment or risk of harm where the perpetrator is a member of the learner's/apprentice's family, the wider community, another learner, apprentice or colleague. Safeguarding also includes protecting learners and apprentices with vulnerabilities.

Colleagues should be particularly alert to the potential need for Early Help for a child who:

- Is disabled and has specific additional needs
- Has special educational needs (whether or not they have a statutory education, health and care plan)
- Is a young carer
- Is showing signs of being drawn into anti-social or criminal behaviour; including gang involvement and association with organised crime groups
- Is frequently missing/goes missing from care or from home
- Has had a change in friendship groups and is in relationships with older people
- Is showing a significant dip in performance
- Is self-harming
- Has unexplained gifts or possessions, outside of what would be considered to be their financial means
- Has two mobile phones, or regularly appears to change their mobile phone
- Is misusing drugs or alcohol
- Is at risk of modern slavery, trafficking or criminal exploitation
- Is in a family circumstance presenting challenges for the child, such as substance abuse, adult mental health problems or domestic abuse
- Has returned home from care to their family
- Is demonstrating vulnerabilities to honour based violence
- Is showing early signs of abuse and/or neglect
- Is at risk of being radicalised or exploited
- Is a privately fostered child (where they are under 16)
- Is within the court system
- Has a family member in prison
- Has a diagnosed mental health condition
- Is experiencing low mental wellbeing
- Is a looked after child

Colleagues, clients, partners, learners and apprentices who have a safeguarding concern about a learner/apprentice should follow the '5 Rs' detailed in appendix three.

Safeguarding reporting procedures

We will use the 5 Rs - Recognition, Response, Reporting, Recording and Referral when approaching safeguarding matters and require all colleagues to operate in line with this process. These have been developed with reference to 'What to do if you are worried a child is being abused – Advice for practitioners' 2015 and can be found at appendix three.

All concerns about learner/apprentice welfare must be logged, by the colleague identifying it, using the safeguarding concern and incident report form after discussion with the relevant Operations Manager (OM) who is the safeguarding manager. This will enable a picture regarding any risks to be built and is used for 'stacking up' purposes ready to inform any requirement for Early Help for the learner/apprentice. The report form can be found here.

Assessments regarding levels of risk undertaken by the safeguarding team will take into consideration the social circumstances of a learner/apprentice alongside the educational context when considering the need to make a referral to children's or adults' services. Local threshold guidance will be consulted to help inform decision making.

Where an allegation of harm or abuse of a learner or apprentice is aimed at a colleague at Paragon Skills, this must be reported immediately to the Head of People, designated safeguarding lead, by phone on 07794 067731. This will be investigated by the Chief Executive Officer with the Head of People's support.

Vulnerable and at risk learners/apprentices

In recognition of the additional vulnerabilities faced by looked after children, Paragon Skills has a Looked After Children's Policy. This is aimed at supporting the achievement of this disadvantaged group and provides guidance for colleagues on supporting the needs of this priority group. This group is termed vulnerable learners/apprentices. It is the responsibility of social workers to advise whether a learner or apprentice is in the defined vulnerable group; however we will take steps to access this information via learners/apprentices themselves.

We recognise that younger learners and apprentices can be vulnerable for a variety of reasons. To identify learners/apprentices aged 16-18 who may have additional vulnerabilities we ask them to complete a welfare questionnaire as part of their enrolment. The information from this informs an assessment of need. Relevant on-going support is then provided to these learners and apprentices. This group is termed learners/apprentices with vulnerabilities. Learners/apprentices aged 16-18 who are absent from learning are considered at risk with this then being dealt with as a potential safeguarding matter.

At risk learners/apprentices can be identified at any point during their programme. These are learners or apprentices that require additional support and intervention to keep them safe. By flagging these individuals, further enhanced monitoring will be enacted to ensure that welfare concerns are stacked up and 'Early Help' is provided, in partnership with local agencies, where required. Flagging of at risk learners/apprentices is the responsibility of the safeguarding leads.

Vulnerable learners/apprentices, at-risk learners/apprentices and those aged 16-18 will be seen face to face. This is because the signs and indicators of abuse and harm are less likely to be apparent in a remote visit.

Wider safeguarding

Paragon Skills is committed to providing welfare support to all learners and apprentices. This includes responding to a learner/apprentice (of any age) via either direct intervention, advice and guidance or signposting where an issue exists within their day to day life (including the workplace) which could impact upon their ability to achieve. For learners and apprentices under 18 this includes providing Early Help and working with external agencies and responding to claims of bullying, victimisation or harassment.

To support the development of our learners' and apprentices' personal understanding of risk they will all be provided with an appropriate level of self-study activity focusing upon safeguarding and resilience as an additionality to their programme.

Confidentiality

We will work to the following Privacy Statement with our learners and apprentices:

"It is important that you feel safe and confident to discuss any issues that you may have with a member of the Paragon Skills team. For this reason any information that you share will only be discussed with those who can directly help and support you, unless you tell us that either you or others are at risk of harm. In such cases we may have to share this information with external agencies such as social services or the Police. This will only be passed on with your knowledge."

We will introduce this to learners and apprentices at induction and refer to it throughout the learning process.

Paragon Skills takes its responsibilities to report crime seriously and as a result we will not afford confidentiality in the following situations:

- Where it is identified that a child or vulnerable adult is at risk of harm
- Where we are told that a serious crime has been committed or is about to be committed
- Where information regarding terrorism or drug trafficking is disclosed
- Where we are instructed to disclose something by a court

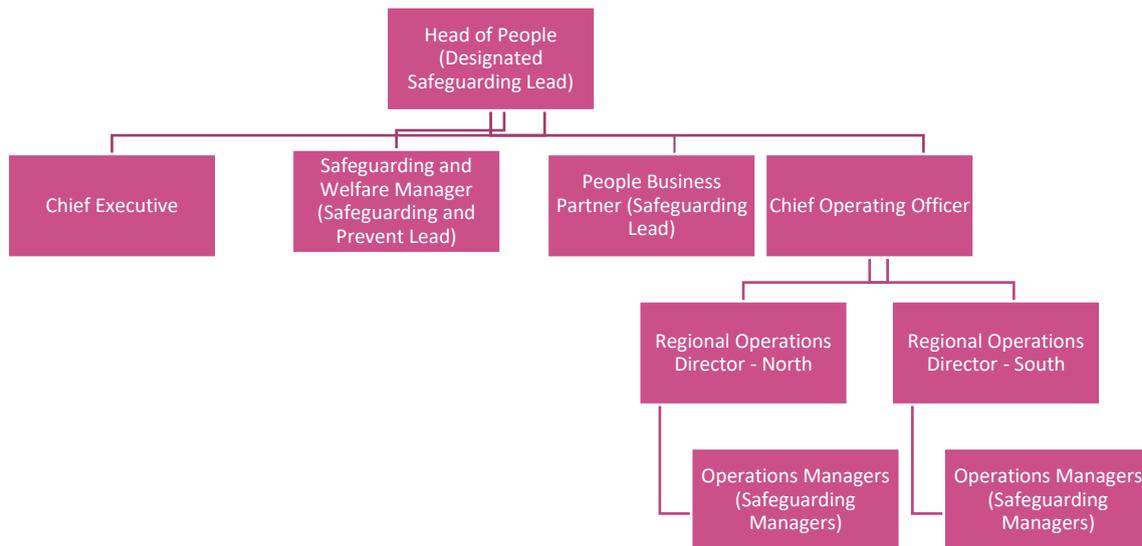

Where a crime takes place within the academy a decision will be made jointly by Academy management and a safeguarding lead regarding the involvement of the police. Whilst we would not wish to criminalise a learner, apprentice or a colleague a decision needs to be made that is proportionate to the situation and in the best interests of impacted parties. Decisions will be made in line with the relevant code of conduct and in line with the National Police Chiefs Council guidance – When to call the police, guidance for schools and colleges. It would be usual for the safeguarding lead to be responsible for making contact with the police after consulting safeguarding records. Regardless of whether the police are to be contacted the victim in any incident should be supported and protected as a priority. Those suspected of being the offender will also need to be supported.

Where a learner or apprentice is identified as being involved in criminal exploitation (including CSE) this will be addressed as a safeguarding matter.

Levels of responsibility

This guide is under Board governance and is reviewed annually by the DSL team, taking into account the impact of the policy and any lessons learned, together with any legislative or required process changes. Recommendations are then made to the Board for their approval and sign off.

Everyone has a responsibility to keep children and the vulnerable safe from harm and to educate them in the risks posed to them. The level of accountability for this will differ dependent on the role held and is laid out in appendix one with the structure of safeguarding responsibility being outlined within the following structure chart.

Whistleblowing

Paragon Skills operates a whistleblowing procedure. This procedure should be used by any colleague, client, partner, learner or apprentice where it is felt that we have failed to act to prevent harm from occurring to an individual. Details of this are contained within the colleague handbook.

Training

In line with Keeping Children Safe in Education (2020) we are committed to providing colleagues with training and awareness raising activity around safeguarding specific to their roles and at a level and frequency as defined within legislation (appendix one). We will record all colleagues’ training using our HR software.

All colleagues in learner facing roles are required to read Part one of Keeping Children Safe in Education. Colleagues sign to confirm adherence to this requirement.

Colleague training and continuing professional development (CPD) will cover the elements defined within the statutory guidance. The content of training will be reviewed on a regular basis by the safeguarding leads to ensure its appropriateness and relevance. Initial training will be provided to all colleagues at induction during a face to face session. This will be supplemented by the completion of our self-study Education pack which covers all elements of includED. All learner facing colleagues are provided with a Field Guide which acts as a day to day safeguarding aide-memoire.

We will provide frequent directed includED CPD to our Personal Tutors and Tutors through resources such as bi-monthly snippets, Safeguarding Guides and 20:20 Vision delivered by safeguarding managers. This will ensure that they are kept up to date and given the confidence to address and respond to issues highlighted by our learners and apprentices. The back catalogue of these CPD resources will be freely accessible to all colleagues, including those who work within partner agencies, and will be shared with new colleagues as they commence with Paragon Skills. In addition to CPD resources, colleagues have access to a variety of factsheets which provide information and signposting on a range of matters including mental health.

As the person responsible for day to day safeguarding matters, the Safeguarding and Welfare Manager will attend externally provided safeguarding training on an annual basis. This will be cascaded to the designated safeguarding lead, safeguarding leads and safeguarding managers. Safeguarding leads and managers will receive regular updates from the Safeguarding and Welfare Manager about a range of wider safeguarding matters.

Safeguarding managers have all received training in the Early Help Assessment Tool.

Safeguarding managers will receive regular email digests which provide updates on emerging risks.

Formal annual refresher self-study activity will be provided to all colleagues as a part of wider includED refresher training activity.

In recognition of the impact of mental health and wellbeing upon safeguarding, all our colleagues will be provided with Mental Health Awareness training. For our line managers and our safeguarding managers this will include mental health first aid. As a part of this training colleagues learn how to undertake a suicide risk assessment. Our safeguarding leads and People Team will hold a level three in Supervising Mental Health First Aid. This training is available for partners on request.

Teaching and learning

We will provide learners and apprentices with opportunities to explore safeguarding in a safe environment and in a way that is relevant to their learning programme with the aim of improving their knowledge, confidence and awareness of safeguarding. This will be done using the approved resources provided by the includED task group, through safe space discussions and through the provision of includED self-study resources.

Safer recruitment

We will operate safer recruitment processes which aim to recruit safely and fairly in line with the Disclosure and Barring Service code of practice, the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act (1974), the Safeguarding Vulnerable Groups Act (2006), and Keeping Children Safe in Education (2020).

We are committed to offering learners and apprentices a safe, happy and healthy environment and will recruit colleagues who share in the belief that the welfare of the learner/apprentice is paramount and promote this through all that they do.

All recruiting managers will undertake ‘Safer Recruitment the Paragon Way’ training. All recruitment panels will include at least one colleague that has completed this self-study and this will be refreshed bi-annually. This training is regularly reviewed to ensure it adheres to recognised good practice.

DBS checks will be undertaken on all colleagues in regulated activity, those with frequent and unsupervised access to children, those that manage colleagues for whom a DBS is relevant and Senior Leadership Team members; these colleagues are defined as being in positions of trust. DBS checks are re-requested on a three yearly basis with the details of these checks being recorded on a single central record. In addition to DBS checks, we undertake overseas checks where an applicant has lived outside of the UK in the last five years, right to work checks and probe gaps in employment.

Where DBS checks are not in place or not required, colleagues will work to appropriate risk mitigations.

We will undertake annual self-declarations to inform individuals' suitability for all those in positions of trust within Paragon Skills. We define positions of trust as all roles with frequent learner/apprentice contact.

Full details of our approach to safer recruitment are laid out in Our Guide to Safer Recruitment.

Managing allegations against a colleague

Paragon Skills commits to fully and sensitively investigating any concerns/allegations made against a colleague which might indicate they would pose a risk of harm to children. Colleagues have the right to confidentiality in such situations and steps will be taken to maintain this throughout. Suspension from regulated activity may be considered whilst an investigation occurs with any investigation being managed in line with our disciplinary process and part four of KCSIE (2020). Suspension from learner facing duties will not be the default action. Any colleague under investigation will be allocated welfare support – this will be provided by a manager within the business but may not be their direct line manager.

Allegations will be discussed with the relevant local authority and if the investigation identified that a colleague has harmed a learner or apprentice, there is evidence that they had planned to do so or their actions put a learner or apprentice at risk a referral will be made to the Disclosure and Barring Service.

In line with our contractual obligations any such referral will be notified to the ESFA via the Contact Form www.gov.uk/government/organisations/educationand-skills-funding-agency.

In line with our contractual obligations where an allegation of abuse is made against a Paragon Skills colleague to the LADO this will also be advised to the ESFA at www.gov.uk/government/organisations/education-and-skills-fundingagency.

Clients and partners

We will support clients with whom we engage to recognise their own safeguarding obligations to learners and apprentices aged under 18. We will do this by providing timely information, advice and guidance.

Paragon Skills delivers a range of qualifications within the child and health and social care sectors meaning that our colleagues will come into incidental contact with children and vulnerable adults within these settings. We will therefore ensure that our learners and apprentices follow their own employer's procedures for the management of safeguarding. Where this is not possible or appropriate, the learner/apprentice should be guided towards their employer's whistleblowing procedures in line with statutory guidance.

Managing and responding to risk

We recognise that it is necessary to undertake safeguarding risk assessments and that safeguarding should be considered alongside other standard assessment of risk processes.

We will undertake generic risk assessments (eg residential stays, classroom based delivery, lone working, contractors working on site, transporting learners/apprentices, remote visits/teaching) and ensure that these are stored centrally for access and use by all colleagues.

At times it will be appropriate to risk assess individual or specific groups of learners/apprentices or activities. Such circumstances should be discussed with the Safeguarding and Welfare Manager, in advance of the learner/apprentice commencing or as soon as a risk is highlighted.

A safeguarding action plan is in place to respond to identified risks.

Social media

There are notable benefits to using social media as communication and promotional tools as well as potential negative effects in terms of reputation and safeguarding. In order to use social media such as social networking sites and blogs in a safe and professional way we operate a social media guide; Our Guide to Social Media.

Owing to the safeguarding implications surrounding the misuse of social media formats, any activities undertaken outside the boundaries of the guide will be dealt with in line with the Disciplinary People Standard.

Extremism and radicalisation

The Prevent Duty identifies that young people pose a risk and as a result we recognise that our learners and apprentices may be at risk of radicalisation. Colleagues have a responsibility to recognise this potential risk and to identify learners and apprentices that may be at risk of harm from radicalisation with the view to support them to access the support which Channel can offer.

Furthermore, we recognise that our colleagues and adult learners/apprentices pose a risk and may be at risk of radicalisation and provide support and supervision to colleagues which will seek to identify vulnerable individuals to support them to access Channel support.

We have a Prevent guide in line with the requirements placed upon us under the Counter-Terrorism and Security Act (2015). This forms a part of this guide.

Our designated Prevent officer is the Safeguarding and Welfare Manager with the safeguarding leads deputising.

Local priorities

As a training provider which operates nationally, we recognise that each learner and apprentice is an individual. Safeguarding priorities will differ across the country meaning that our safeguarding managers will take an interest in supporting their direct reports to understand the safeguarding priorities for the localities in which they engage with learners and apprentices. These are defined by local authorities and partnerships meaning that our safeguarding managers will build links within their areas which enable them to understand and respond to the needs of the community in which they operate. Where we are listed by safeguarding partnerships as a statutory partner we will work in line with defined arrangements.

Record keeping

All records regarding a learner's or apprentice's welfare will be clear, use straightforward language, be concise, accurate in fact and stored confidentially and securely in line with GDPR. The regulations allow for the safe storage and sharing of information for safeguarding purposes, including information which is sensitive and personal, and should be treated as 'special category personal data'. Any judgements, interventions or decisions made will be carefully recorded to facilitate further professional judgements to be made should this be necessary.

GDPR is not a barrier to sharing information for the purposes of safeguarding the individual. Any information shared will be shared in line with the Information Sharing: Practitioners' guide (HM Government, March 2015) document. Fears about sharing information must not be allowed to stand in the way of the need to promote the welfare, and protect the safety of children.

Records of safeguarding issues will be kept centrally by the safeguarding team. These will be chronological, factual and kept in accordance with data protection regulations and only accessible by the safeguarding team and Chief Executive. Where relevant, a reference to the record will be logged on (but not stored on) the learner's/apprentice's file. Records will be destroyed after three years.

All records are kept to facilitate 'stacking up'. In line with statutory guidance a safeguarding lead will pass on child protection records to educational establishments to which a learner or apprentice progresses, where this information is notified.

CCTV and content filtering monitoring software

We will use CCTV and content filtering software throughout our buildings to enhance the measures taken to safeguard learners, apprentices and colleagues.

We will not use CCTV in toilets, showers or changing facilities.

We will use CCTV and content filtering software to monitor the behaviour of colleagues and learners/apprentices with the view to actively safeguard individuals and respond to any identified risks. This will be done in accordance with the GDPR.

Mental health

A person's mental wellbeing can have a significant impact on their ability to make decisions to maintain their own safety. For this reason Paragon Skills has taken steps to train colleagues to recognise when someone is struggling with their mental health with the view to offer relevant support and signposting advice. All learner facing colleagues receive mental health awareness training as a minimum and are supported by a dedicated team of mental health first aiders and mental health first aid supervisors.

Further to this we have partnered with Shout, a crisis text messaging service who are available 24/7 to offer support to anyone that needs it, via text messaging.

Prevent - our commitment

The purpose of this guide is to provide everyone connected to Paragon Skills with a clear outline of our position with respect to the safeguarding of learners, apprentices and colleagues under the Prevent Duty.

Prevent is a strand of the Government's counter terrorism strategy CONTEST. Paragon Skills is, via its levels of engagement with learners and apprentices of all ages and from a variety of cultural and ethnic backgrounds, able to contribute towards the aim of preventing individuals from being drawn into terrorism or extreme violence.

As an education and training provider, Paragon Skills has a statutory duty to prevent people being drawn into terrorism under the Counter-Terrorism and Security Act (2015). We meet these obligations through considering radicalisation and extremism as a safeguarding matter. We provide training to our colleagues and support partners to recognise where learners/apprentices or peers may be at risk of being drawn into radical or extreme behaviour as part of our overall approach to safeguarding.

Objectives

As part of Paragon Skills' approach to equality and inclusion, safeguarding and the promotion of fundamental British values, we will:

- Promote fundamental British values by ensuring that there is a culture of equality and inclusion within our delivery
- Provide the opportunity for learners and apprentices to explore what British values mean to them
- Challenge segregation, radicalisation and discrimination and promote cohesion and build resilience with the aim of our learners, apprentices and colleagues contributing actively to an inclusive society
- Operate a clear and consistent anti-bullying approach which challenges harassment and discrimination and enables learners, apprentices and colleagues to feel safe and supported
- Provide support, advice and guidance for learners, apprentices and colleagues who may be at risk of radicalisation. This may include referral to safeguarding hubs or Channel, the process by which multi-agency support is provided to individuals who are at risk of being drawn into terrorism. This forms part of our safeguarding arrangements
- Ensure that colleagues, learners, apprentices, partners and clients are aware of their roles and responsibilities in preventing radicalisation and extremism of all forms
- Have a leadership team which actively promotes the core values of shared responsibility and well-being for learners, apprentices and colleagues by ensuring that these are at the heart of everything that we do
- Facilitate safe space discussions which enable our learners and apprentices to develop their own knowledge and understanding of British values
- Operate a Prevent risk assessment which informs a Prevent action plan. This will be reviewed and updated quarterly with updates being provided to the Board. This risk assessment will be overseen by the safeguarding leads with the includED task group, the Senior Leadership Team and Colleague Voice taking an active role in its review.

Definitions

Radicalisation

The process through which an individual changes from passiveness or activism to become more revolutionary, militant or extremist, especially where there is intent towards, or support for, violence.

A person can be radicalised through direct or indirect contact with someone who has extreme views i.e. face to face or on-line, where that individual is attempting to persuade or convince as to the benefits of their message or extreme views.

Extremism

The point at which extreme views are classed as extremism is when actions are taken which are harmful or criminal. Where extreme actions involve the use of violence and intimidation in the pursuit of political or religious causes this is then defined as terrorism.

Terrorism

The unlawful use of violence and intimidation, especially against civilians, in the pursuit of political aims.

Levels of responsibility

This guide is under Board governance and is reviewed annually by the DSL team. The process of developing, reviewing and updating the risk register is used to inform lessons learned. These lessons learned, along with a review of legislative requirements and changes and best practice, form the basis of the annual review of the Prevent duty and procedures. Recommendations are then made to the Board for their approval and sign off.

Paragon Skills' Safeguarding and Welfare Manager is the company's Prevent officer. Safeguarding leads will deputise as required.

Safeguarding managers are responsible for understanding the Prevent priorities in the areas in which their teams operate and appraising their team of this information through quarterly updates. They will build their own understanding and local knowledge through links with the FE Prevent regional Coordinators and (where available) having access to the Counter Terrorism Local Profile (CTLP) documents.

The Prevent officer and safeguarding leads are responsible for making all decisions regarding referrals to local authority safeguarding hubs for consideration under Channel panels. Channel focuses on providing support at an early stage to people who are identified as being vulnerable to being drawn into terrorism. The programme uses a multi-agency approach to protect vulnerable people. Panels are held at local authority level. The panel is made up of statutory partners who decide the best route for supporting the individual who has been referred to them as being vulnerable to extremism.

The includED task group will be responsible for driving the development of teaching and learning activities and self-study resources.

- All colleagues should be vigilant to extremist behaviour as a wider part of their safeguarding duties and report their concerns to the safeguarding team in line with our wider safeguarding reporting procedures (see the 5 Rs)

- Learner facing colleagues will deliver learning and assessment which reflects fundamental British values
- We will seek to actively safeguard all learners and apprentices and provide welfare support at the point of need for learners/apprentices identified to be at risk of harm as defined within Keeping Children Safe in Education (2020)
- We will implement anti-bullying strategies and challenge discriminatory behaviour. We will challenge banter and recognise this as the potential to be peer on peer abuse
- We will respond to identified community needs
- We will actively narrow the achievement gap between different groups of learners and apprentices
- We will promote a culture of vigilance and operate a whistleblowing procedure which includes reference to the Prevent agenda

Teaching and learning

Paragon Skills provides a curriculum that promotes fundamental British values with the view to encourage learners and apprentices to participate in their local communities and use their voice to make positive changes. This will be done using the approved resources provided by the includED task group.

We will take every available opportunity to match our curriculum to both local and national priorities whilst offering learners and apprentices the opportunity to develop critical thinking skills.

We will use topical and relevant examples to stimulate thinking and actively tackle discrimination and radicalisation.

Learners and apprentices will be encouraged to explore fundamental British values in a safe and supportive environment, without fear of discrimination via safe space discussions. All learners and apprentices will be provided with an appropriate level of self-study activity focusing upon the risk posed by radicalisation and extremism as an additionality to their programme.

All learner facing colleagues are provided with a Field Guide which acts as a day to day Prevent and British Values aide-memoire.

Use and monitoring of information and communication technology (ICT)

ICT equipment provided to both colleagues and learners/apprentices is subject to monitoring to enable us to enact our safeguarding responsibilities. In addition to monitoring, filters are applied to Paragon Skills systems which will restrict access to harmful content. A log will be kept and reviewed to enable patterns of inappropriate access to be identified and challenged. This log will be overseen by the Head of IT and areas of concern raised with the safeguarding team.

Colleagues identifying inappropriate use will report this to a safeguarding manager to enable this to be investigated for safeguarding purposes.

Paragon Skills operates an E-safety guide which reflects the requirements placed upon us by the Prevent Duty, this forms a part of this guide.

Managing and responding to risk

We will ensure that there is a shared understanding amongst colleagues and learners/apprentices as to the risks posed within the training environment by extremist behaviour. We will raise awareness through formal induction training for all colleagues as a part of wider includED self-study activity, annual refresher self-study activity and through quarterly Prevent focused Safeguarding Guides.

Steps will be taken to mitigate the risk posed to colleagues/learners and apprentices by individuals vulnerable to radicalisation on a case by case basis through the risk assessment process.

Referrals to Channel will be made on a case by case basis and with consideration being made to the need for a multi-agency approach in advance of any referrals. The relevant local authority safeguarding team will be consulted, along with the DfE Prevent Coordinator in advance of any referrals to Channel.

Where a referral is made relating to concerns that a colleague is vulnerable to being drawn into terrorism, or that there has been an incident related to them being radicalised this will be notified, in line with our contractual obligations to the ESFA using the reporting form www.gov.uk/government/organisations/education-and-skillsfunding-agency.

We will operate a critical incident management plan in dealing with terrorist related incidents. This will form part of our Disaster Recovery Plan and ensure that there are plans in place which respond to any direct threats within our buildings. Key colleagues will be trained in ACT (Action Counters Terrorism). Our colleagues will be briefed on how to behave in the event of an act of terror.

Risk assessments will be undertaken on any external speakers and clear guidance will be issued as to levels of acceptable behaviour whilst on site. Where available, scripts will be approved before delivery to ensure that the content is consistent with fundamental British values and our approach to safeguarding.

We have zero tolerance to racism, discrimination, religious or cultural intolerance and indifference and will treat these as safeguarding matters.

Incidents, or pattern of incidents, which undermines the promotion of British fundamental values will be viewed as a safeguarding concern with support being sought from the relevant DfE Prevent Coordinator to address these; these will also be reported to the ESFA via www.gov.uk/government/organisations/education-and-skills-funding-agency in line with our contractual obligations.

Relevant display materials, including externally produced leaflets and posters, will promote fundamental British values and have due consideration to the Equality Act. We will promote this ethos with our clients and partners.

Bookable spaces will be made available in our Academy for contemplation or prayer. These will be monitored to ensure that they are being used for appropriate purposes.

Paragon Skills will only promote its services within organisations that share its values for the need to safeguard, promote equality and prevent extremist behaviour. Where required, risk assessments will be undertaken to consider the appropriateness of venues before agreements are made to provide training to individuals within that organisation. We will risk assess all external speakers and sub-contractors to ensure that they are compliant with this guide.

The culture of vigilance extends to our external relationships. Where customers with whom Paragon Skills is engaged are found to be either in breach of the Equality Act or advocating extremist views or behaviour, this will be addressed as a safeguarding issue by a safeguarding manager with support from a safeguarding lead.

Training

The safeguarding leads will complete Home Office on-line and Channel Awareness training. Directed CPD will be provided to safeguarding managers by the Safeguarding and Welfare Manager and formal annual refresher self-study activity will be provided to all colleagues.

New colleagues will undertake Home Office Prevent on-line training as part of their Education pack when they commence with Paragon Skills. This will be refreshed annually and supported by directed CPD delivered by safeguarding managers at team meetings through resources such as includED bi-monthly snippets and our quarterly dedicated Prevent focused Safeguarding Guides which are accompanied by interactive knowledge consolidation activities. The content of this will be shared with partners through an email update.

Mandatory safeguarding training will equip colleagues with the ability to recognise signs that a learner, apprentice or colleague might be on the path to becoming radicalised and outline the process by which concerns should be raised. This will be delivered face to face as part of the Corporate Induction day.

All training will be refreshed annually or as required by legislation.

Safeguarding managers will receive email digests which provide updates on emerging risks.

Paragon Skills will actively promote our Prevent Duty to colleagues and learners/apprentices alike and ensure that a wide range of colleagues are involved in Prevent risk assessment.

Customers and partners

Safeguarding managers will work with their local DfE Prevent Coordinator to ensure that they are aware of the Prevent priorities for the area in which they operate. They will attend at least one network per year in their area of operation.

Where Paragon Skills operates within a Prevent priority area, information sharing relationships will be developed with Prevent partners; this will include where possible accessing Counter Terrorism Local Profile information.

Multi-agency support will be sought as part of our approach to Early Help for any individual felt to be at risk from or vulnerable to extremism.

Partners and sub-contractors will be kept up to date on emerging risk information via a regular includED newsletter.

E-safety - our commitment

Paragon Skills recognises the benefits and opportunities which new technologies offer to teaching, learning and business execution. We provide ICT and internet access to learners and colleagues and encourage the use of technologies in order to enhance skills, promote achievement and enable lifelong learning.

Objectives

This guide explains our approach to E-safety and how colleagues and learners should behave when using systems and equipment provided to them by Paragon Skills. This includes delivering learning remotely.

The accessibility and global nature of the internet and different technologies available mean that we are aware of potential risks and challenges associated with internet use.

Our approach is to implement appropriate safeguards within the Academies and wider operation, whilst supporting colleagues and learners to identify and manage risks independently and with confidence.

Furthermore, we expect our partner organisations to demonstrate practices and culture which meet with the standards laid out within this guide. We believe this can be achieved through a combination of security measures, training, guidance and implementation of our wider policies.

Use of ICT

Paragon Skills is committed to achieving the principles of the GDPR. Information Communication Technology (ICT) and Information Technology (IT) systems will be provided which contribute towards these aims. Further information on the steps enacted by Paragon Skills to protect the data provided to us by data subjects can be found in our Data Protection policy.

Colleagues and learners are not permitted to use software or any other method of interfering with any of the company's computer equipment.

Colleagues and learners are not permitted to download software or install any software onto the company's computer system except on advice from a member of the IT department.

Much of the material on the internet is protected by copyright laws and therefore the company, the colleague and the learner could be liable under civil and criminal law for any unauthorised copying. It is expected therefore that individuals are mindful of copyright when undertaking to use the internet.

Paragon Skills has the right to review all files and records and the right to periodically monitor, audit or review network, workstation, internet and e-mail use on the company network. This extends to both colleagues and learners and will be notified to users via a privacy statement.

Use of the internet

Where appropriate, the use of the internet is encouraged as part of official, professional and learning activities. It is recognised as a source of up-to-date information and provides guidance on a number of business and vocational related matters. Internet access within our buildings is provided for business and learning purposes only, not personal use.

The IT department will review internet activity and analyse usage patterns, and may choose to perform detailed analysis of the data to assure that the network and internet access are devoted to maintaining the highest levels of productivity and security. This may include accessing records of sites accessed on home networks where this has been done on Paragon Skills equipment.

Paragon Skills prohibits the use of unauthorised sites on its networks or equipment. If colleagues find the network accidentally connected to a site that contains sexually explicit, radical, extremist or offensive material, they must disconnect from that site immediately, regardless of whether that site has previously been deemed acceptable by any screening or rating program. All such circumstances must be reported to a line manager.

Use of the internet and ILT (instructor led training) by our learners is encouraged. Paragon Skills provides internet access to learners within the Academies and access to web based learning management systems to further their learning and development through the provision of learner networks and bring your own device (BYOD) approaches. Paragon Skills also promote independent study through the internet for all learners. We will provide appropriate education to ensure that our learners have the tools to protect themselves from potential risks of harm during such activities. Furthermore where learners access the internet through a learner network they will do so using personalised log ons. Monitoring of the usage of the learner network will allow for at risk learners to be identified based upon their internet access; this however only takes into consideration a small proportion of learners. For this reason we will risk assess all teaching activity and seek to embed good practice to protect learners who use the internet for their studies.

Virus protection procedures seek to prevent the introduction of virus contamination into the Paragon Skills network. Unauthorised software including public domain software, magazine cover discs/CDs, USB memory sticks, external hard drives, or internet/world wide web downloads must not be used.

Levels of responsibility

This guide is under Board governance and is reviewed annually by Paragon Skills and also through the Board cycle every year.

All colleagues are responsible for ensuring the safety of learners and should report any general concerns about their E-safety in line with our Safeguarding Guide to a safeguarding manager.

The E-safety officer is the Safeguarding and Welfare Manager. The E-safety officer is responsible for keeping up to date with new technologies and their use, as well as attending relevant training. They will coordinate colleague development and training, record incidents, report any developments and incidents to the Board and liaise with the local authority and external agencies as required in line with Safeguarding and Prevent Guides.

The includED task group will be responsible for driving the development of includED teaching and learning activities.

Managing and responding to risk

Colleagues should be particularly mindful that technology is used by young people that are at risk of harm or engaging in criminal or risk taking behaviours. This includes viewing sexualised imagery of children, county lines activity, viewing or engaging in extremist narrative and grooming behaviour.

Use of personal social networking

Personal social networking should be used by colleagues with due diligence. Colleagues should not engage with learners via social media unless this has been directly authorised by a senior manager.

Information once published, eg photographs, blog posts, is impossible to control and may be manipulated without consent, used in different contexts, or further distributed.

Colleagues should ensure appropriate security settings are applied so access to their profile is limited to those explicitly given access to do so.

Colleagues should also refer to Our Guide to Social Media.

Inappropriate use

Unauthorised or inappropriate use of the ICT systems may result in disciplinary action which could lead to dismissal.

Paragon Skills operates a clear code of conduct contained within the colleague handbook. Violations of this guide may subject the individual to disciplinary and/or legal action as may be deemed necessary.

Teaching and learning

Learners must act safely and responsibly at all times when using the ICT and ILT provided to them by Paragon Skills. We will provide them with an education which develops their ability to meet this requirement.

Alongside this, learners using BYOD or the learner network will be issued with a privacy statement and acceptable usage guidance on internet use with which they are expected to comply. They will be made aware that their usage is being monitored for safeguarding purposes.

We operate safe surfing and monitor and restrict access to harmful sites within our Academies. Academy based learners will be introduced to such E–safety mechanisms as a part of their induction. This will include a privacy statement outlining how personal data will be used for the purposes of safeguarding.

Learners are responsible for participating in E-safety education as part of the curriculum. This will be delivered using the approved resources provided by the includED task group. All learners will be provided with an appropriate level of self-study activity focusing upon E-safety as an additionality to their programme.

Learners will be briefed on safeguarding reporting procedures and encouraged to report any concerns that they may have about themselves or another learner in relation to E-safety.

All learners must know what to do if they have E-safety concerns and who to talk to. In most cases, this will be their Personal Tutor or Tutor.

Training

To support colleagues to safeguard the learner and in addressing E-safety matters with learners as part of includED, they will be provided with training and directed Continuing Professional Development in E-safety matters. This will be embedded into includED induction training for new colleagues and into the formal includED annual refresher self-study activity. Colleagues will also receive regular includED CPD and learning consolidation activities on E-Safety matters through bi-monthly snippets and Safeguarding Guides delivered by safeguarding managers at team meetings.

Safeguarding managers will receive email digests which provide updates on emerging risks.

- Effective representation is required from each division; if members are not available any input should be agreed with another member or the chair in advance
- If items are deemed to be confidential this will be communicated to the group in advance or at the end of the meeting and adherence to this will be expected

Appendix three - safeguarding reporting procedure – ‘the 5 Rs’

Recognition

Recognition covers both disclosures of abuse or harm and your personal concerns about a learner's (child's) welfare. You should consider;

- A disclosure of abuse is likely to be direct
- A wider safeguarding concern for a learner may arise from either a conversation or a change in a learner's behaviour which causes you to become concerned for their welfare or well-being
- Absence/non-contact of a young/vulnerable learner or a learner with vulnerabilities is considered to be a safeguarding matter

Response

When faced with a disclosure:

- Do not interview - just listen and clarify if necessary. Remain calm and professional
- Inform the person that the concerns raised must be recorded and passed on to the safeguarding team
- Reassure the person that they have done the right thing in reporting their concerns and that you will do everything you possibly can to help
- Do not make unrealistic promises around confidentiality

When faced with a wider safeguarding or welfare issue:

- Approach your safeguarding manager and discuss the next steps with them – this may include monitoring the situation or seeking further advice and guidance from the Safeguarding and Welfare Manager or a safeguarding lead
- Consider the need for intervention or Early Help. Your safeguarding manager will advise you on this
- Use the premise of ‘stacking up’ to inform next steps in conjunction with your safeguarding manager

Reporting

All disclosures of abuse or risk of immediate harm must be urgently reported to a Safeguarding lead, by phone. DO NOT DISCUSS DISCLOSURES OF ABUSE WITH ANYONE ELSE.

With the safeguarding manager's agreement report any welfare concerns as soon as practicably possible, but before the end of the working day by submitting the reporting form.

Record

Using the safeguarding concern and incident report form record precisely what has been alleged/happened - use the words of the learner if relevant and record factual information only.

Referral

Anyone is able to make a referral to Social Care or the Police, where there is a significant and immediate risk to the learner (child). This should, however, be notified to the safeguarding team for the purposes of stacking up using the reporting form.

Any intention of referral must be notified to the individual concerned and, unless it would jeopardise the safety of the child, to their parent/carer.

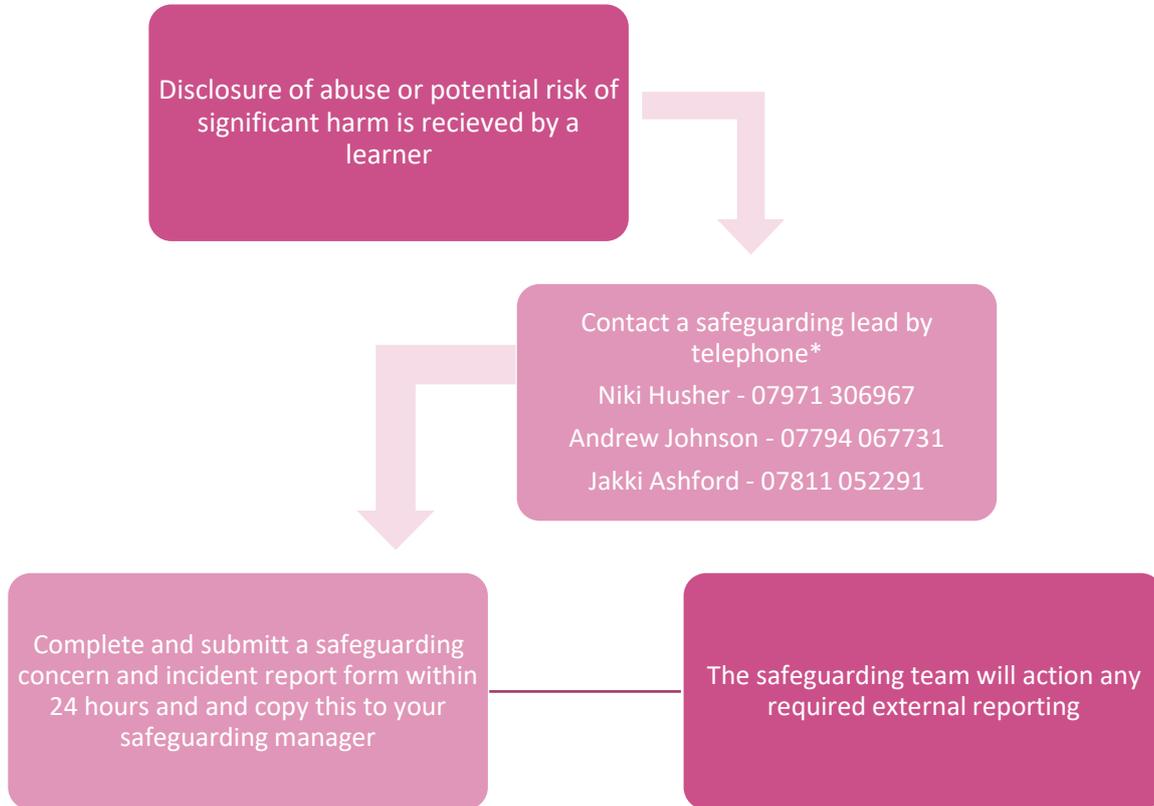

No one at Paragon Skills is in a position to decide whether abuse has taken place.

Responding to an immediate risk of harm

* let the learner know that you will be passing on the concern and reassure them that they have done the right thing by telling you.

Responding to disclosures

* let the learner know that you will be passing on the concern and reassure them that they have done the right thing by telling you.

Responding to a wider safeguarding concern or a welfare issue

Appendix four - safeguarding during Covid-19

Introduction

At Paragon Skills we recognise that we are in unprecedented times and as a result our unusual ways of working will need to be amended. This appendix has been developed for use during the social distancing measures being implemented by the UK Government in response to the Covid-19 global pandemic and outlines the expectations that we have of our colleagues to promote the welfare and safeguarding of our learners and children in general. It outlines our response to <https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/covid-19-safeguarding-in-schools-colleges-and-other-providers/coronavirus-covid-19-safeguarding-in-schools-colleges-and-other-providers>

Safeguarding is everybody's responsibility and at Paragon Skills steps will be taken to ensure that all our colleagues keep safeguarding at the forefront of their minds. The measures outlined in this document will ensure that Paragon Skills can continue to have appropriate regard to KCSIE and keep children safe.

On-line teaching arrangements

Our Academies will remain closed during the period of social distancing. This decision has been taken to promote the safety and wellbeing of our colleagues and learners alike.

Remote delivery is not new and as a result Personal Tutors have systems available to them which enable the delivery of remote learning to all learners. Only systems approved for use by Paragon Skills should be used. Such online learning tools and systems are produced in line with privacy and data protection/GDPR requirements. The starting point for online teaching should be that the same principles apply as set out in our code of conduct.

Priority groups

Personal Tutors should ensure that they have regular contact with all their learners, and in particular those priority learners who are aged under 18, have an ECHP or are classed as vulnerable (a looked after child). Priority learners will receive additional welfare contact and Personal Tutors will continue to identify any additional vulnerabilities through professional curiosity. Any concerns identified should be logged using the incident and concern report form hosted on the Hub. Advice can be sought from safeguarding managers or safeguarding leads.

Good practice requires that priority learners are seen face to face every ten weeks. This is because it is recognised that physical face to face visits are more likely to identify a safeguarding concern than a remote visit. During the period of social distancing physical face to face visits are not permitted. To ensure that professional curiosity can be exercised effectively, regular contact should therefore be via a video call with intervening contact being made via text message or phone call.

Parents or carers of learners in priority groups should be kept up to date with the arrangements that exist to continue their learning. The responsibility for such communication lies with the Personal Tutor in discussion with the Operations Manager. Parents of priority learners may benefit from online safety advice; such advice can be sought from the safeguarding leads.

Personal Tutors will also be aware of learners who have vulnerabilities, but who are not considered to be within a priority group. Examples include adult learners (those over the age of 18) with mental health conditions or a low level of mental wellbeing. These learners should be treated in the same way as priority groups.

Priority learners who are non-contactable should be reported as a safeguarding concern using the concern and incident report form.

Where a Personal Tutor is self-isolating and not working, their safeguarding manager will pick up welfare contact for all priority group learners.

Support for learners

Social isolation will impact individuals in different ways. Learners may require a variety of support ranging from helping them to understand what is happening to supporting them with their mental health. A range of support tools are available and individualised support can be accessed through the safeguarding leads by emailing safeguarding@pgon.co.uk. Crisis support is available for all learners via our partner agency Shout who can be reached by texting 'Paragon' to 85258.

Seeking safeguarding advice and reporting a concern or a risk of harm

The requirement to report concerns and seek advice on all matters related to safeguarding remains in place.

Paragon Skills has three named safeguarding leads; Andrew Johnson, Jakki Ashford and Niki Husher. The leads are supported by a team of safeguarding managers.

General safeguarding advice should be sought in line with normal processes ie from a safeguarding manager.

The safeguarding leads will continue to provide safeguarding referral support/immediate risk of harm advice and are contactable during business hours on their mobiles or by emailing safeguarding@pgon.co.uk.

Our safeguarding leads are all actively practicing social distancing measures. In the unusual situation that all three safeguarding leads are unable to work due to contracting the coronavirus, or because they are unwell for any other reason, safeguarding reports should be made directly to the relevant local safeguarding hub by a safeguarding manager. Where no safeguarding managers are available, referrals should be actioned by the person with the concern. It is recognised that this is only likely to occur in an extreme case. All such reports should be logged on the incident and concern report form.

As a part of our Corporate Conscience the safeguarding leads at Paragon Skills are available to all colleagues to provide generic safeguarding advice related to a child within their community. Such advice can be sought by contacting safeguarding@pgon.co.uk.

Recruitment

It is essential that unsuitable people are not allowed to enter the children's workforce and/or gain access to children. Some key roles may need to be recruited during this period of social isolation and measures therefore need to be put in place to ensure relevant checks are undertaken as thoroughly as possible. As far as reasonably practicable safer recruitment measures must be maintained.

Interviews will be carried out by a panel containing a minimum of two Paragon Skills colleagues. At least one colleague must have undertaken 'Safer recruitment the Paragon Skills way. Interviews will be conducted using Microsoft Teams. All interviews will be set up by the People Team. This remote interview will mirror the usual interview process.

Right to work checks will be carried out electronically via video call by the People Team. A full face to face right to work check will then be completed at the new colleague's face to face Corporate Induction session.

In response to COVID-19, the Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) has made changes to its guidance on standard and enhanced DBS ID checking to minimise the need for face to face contact. Where relevant to the role DBS checks will be undertaken in line with the guidance published by the Government. This process will be led by the People Team. Original ID will be seen at the first practical point after the individual's start date. The People Team will continue to keep the single central record (SCR) up to date as outlined in paragraphs 148 to 156 of KCSIE.

Induction of new colleagues

Where new colleagues are recruited and commence during the period of social isolation, a one to one safeguarding induction will be provided to them by a safeguarding lead. This remote session will cover off the signs and behaviours of risk of harm and reporting procedures. Colleagues will be allocated their Education pack for completion within one month. New managers will also be allocated on screen safer recruitment training, but will be unable to recruit themselves until they have completed their Corporate Induction session.

Online safety

Children should continue to be protected when they are online. Sadly fraudsters and predators will use this period of heightened online communication for their own benefit. Paragon Skills will utilise relationships with colleagues, partners and learners to highlight positive e-safety behaviours. Advice will be provided via included Snippets on how to stay safe during social distancing and provide alerts about potential fraudulent activities or predatory behaviours.

Where learners are using Paragon Skills provided systems, appropriate filters and monitoring systems are in place to protect children when they are online. These continue to be available and monitoring is in place.

Code of professional conduct

Paragon Skills operates a clear code of conduct which requires that colleagues do not bring the company into disrepute and that they do not breach a position of trust with a learner. During the period of social distancing it is expected that colleagues communicate regularly and professionally with learners, using only approved communication systems and, where practicable, during normal business hours or to meet the needs of a key worker (HSC/Child Care learners only). To use alternative methods of communication or to seek to take advantage of a learner's vulnerability would be considered as gross misconduct.

Paragon Skills will continue to follow our legal duty to refer to the DBS anyone who has harmed or poses a risk of harm to a child or vulnerable adult during this period.

Training and CPD

Safeguarding refresher training and continuing professional development will continue as normal during this period of social distancing.

Bereavement

Whilst for most Covid-19 is a mild to moderate illness sadly people will lose their lives.

Where a colleague or learner is lost to the Coronavirus counselling support will be available to any colleague that is impacted by their death through the employee assistance programme.

Support for learners bereaved by Covid-19 will be provided through partner organisations. We recognise that calls for NHS and charity based counselling services will be extremely high and we commit to supporting our priority group learners (LAC, learners with ECHPs and those under 18) through the provision of counselling services at the point of identified need.
